
Each point is a seed × optimizer selection; bubble area represents number of active feature blocks.